Welcome to Afternoon Tea at The Bailey's Hotel

Whittard
CHELSEA 1886

THE BAILEY'S HOTEL

With its sweeping staircase and original Victorian features, The Bailey's Hotel offers a beautiful setting in which to enjoy the timeless British tradition of afternoon tea. Indulge in an array of sandwiches, scones and sumptuous sweet treats, complemented with a loose leaf tea from Whittard of Chelsea – and for that extra touch of indulgence, add a glass of Moët & Chandon Champagne.

Built between 1874 and 1876, The Bailey's Hotel soon established itself as a fashionable Kensington address. It was only ten years later that a young Walter Whittard opened his first tea shop, a short tube trip away in bustling Fleet Street. Over 130 years later, Whittard of Chelsea is world-renowned for its uncompromising quality – their quintessentially English tea is the perfect match for our classic London setting.

Throughout the hotel we highlight a number of aspects of London life and history. Here we present to you four special teas that quintessentially represent each of them:

1886 Blend

GREAT EXHIBITION

This historical blend is inspired by the type of tea enjoyed in Victorian London when Walter Whittard opened his first shop in 1886 – malty, full-bodied and full of flavour. This was Victorian London in its heyday, after the Great Exhibition had established Great Britain as a dazzling player on the world stage. If you enjoy a classic English cup of tea with a rich, gutsy flavour, this is the blend for you.

Rosebuds

KEW GARDENS

This unusual infusion is crafted solely from whole pink rosebuds, giving a sweet, rounded taste and a gently refreshing finish. We've chosen it to represent the botanical paradise of Kew Gardens, a home for plants and trees from around the world which plays a vital role in their study and conservation.

Chilli Chai

THE RIVER THAMES

From the Oxford and Cambridge Boat Race in the spring to Henley Regatta in the summer, the River Thames plays a vital part in the capital's sporting and social life. For the winter time, we've selected an aromatic black tea blend with cardamom, cinnamon, cloves and creamy vanilla. Richly warming with a hint of subtle spice, it's ideal for sipping on the riverbank.

Extravagant Earl Grey

CITY GENT

We believe that the spirit of London is best represented by the well-dressed city gentleman, sophisticated in his business and his choices in life. And no tea better represents him than Extravagant Earl Grey: an elegant twist on the traditional bergamot-scented blend, with a luxuriously floral white tea base and a sumptuous scattering of Madagascan vanilla.
